If your organization is like many, your employees communicate in more than one language. They might be geographically dispersed or located within the same country while speaking more than one language. To support a diverse employee population, it is important to provide access to information in an individual’s native language. This improves the understanding of your business content, which is critical to an efficient and effective workforce.

The Xerox DocuShare content management platform seamlessly supports the language needs of a multilingual workforce. As a browser-based Web application, DocuShare detects the user’s preferred language setting and then automatically displays the interface in that language. When working with DocuShare, users can switch among the installed languages. Or they can view the same content in multiple languages in different browser windows.

In addition to English, DocuShare provides language support for French, German, Spanish, Chinese (traditional and simplified), Japanese, and Korean. Other languages are supported through DocuShare’s network of worldwide partners.

With DocuShare, users can securely store documents written in any language and view them wherever they are. DocuShare also indexes content in nearly every language, enabling users to search for documents using their native language.

With DocuShare, your diverse, multilingual workforce is supported and able to fully understand the information that is essential to their job and your business.

Want to Learn More?
Visit docushare.xerox.com or call 1-800-735-7749 to talk with a DocuShare representative.